

VINITA BANKER TO BE THE NEW PRESIDENT?

Political Gossip Last Night Points to Election of A. L. Churchill as Association's New Head.

THEY WILL IN HOTEL TULSA

Delegates From Eastern Side of State and Oklahoma City Financial Men Are First on Ground.

It is the political and social side of the bankers' convention that offers the chief attractions. A number of bankers said so last night at Hotel Tulsa where about 150 of them played bankers' politics. The chief aim of the game was to see that the social end of the game was not overlooked. This latter feature was well looked after by the Tulsa bankers, who have been the visitors and in seeing to it that the guests were made to feel at home.

The social end of the game dovetailed in with the political end of it. In other words, the social part is so connected with the political part that they are one and so it's a sort of game of playing both ends against the middle to win the favor of the bankers when it comes to the election of officers, etc.

Uncovering a "Dark Horse." It was a little early last night to talk of candidates. As with real political conventions, it is a rule that every candidate must be a "dark horse" until the last moment. That gives opportunity for electioneering, and after that the game is to find just what the voters are. Reporters, however, are somewhat out of their element in an atmosphere of finance which is not the case in an atmosphere of politics, so it is more of a game of guessing than of reporting. That, perhaps, was why it was difficult last night for newspapermen to fathom the method in the persistence with which certain bankers who had entered upon their duties, dragged them into the equality of the game. The first half of the evening, however, was devoted to the acquaintance of a humble reporter, had introduced the same reporter to Mr. Churchill, it dawned upon the newspaperman that perhaps Mr. Churchill was to be favored in some manner by his colleagues, contemporaries, co-bankers or whatever the proper term may be.

So it's Mr. Churchill. And when, with a reporter's inquiring turn of mind, it was suggested that Mr. Churchill might be one of the highups in banking circles, one of the self-appointed major-doms, whispered, a candidate for president of the association.

So it develops that Mr. Churchill is a candidate for president of the State Bankers' association. His cause was more loudly proclaimed than that of any other man last night so far as could be learned. Mr. Churchill, it was said, will not refuse the office if it is tendered to him and there seemed to be plenty of indications that it would be tendered to him.

The hotels were rich—opulent with guests last night. On account of the cool weather, many of them were somewhat particular about their sleeping quarters. Nearly all of them said that they had an aversion to sleeping in a draft and the hotel clerks got even by replying that they would cash any stray drafts on sight.

Important Session Today. Muskogee, Vinita and Oklahoma City bankers were early on the ground. M. Board, president of the Exchange National bank of Muskogee, and his party registered early yesterday morning at the Hotel Tulsa. W. E. Rowsey, a director in the same bank, was active in the social whirl that kept the lobby buzz-

If you have ringing, buzzing noises in your ears, are getting hard of hearing and feel dizziness, drowsiness, go to your druggist and get 1 ounce of Derma (double strength), and add to it 4 pints of hot water and a little granulated sugar. Take 1 tablespoonful four times a day. This will often bring quick relief from the distressing head noises. Clogged nostrils should open, breathing become easy and the mucus stop dripping into the throat. It is easy to prepare, costs little and is pleasant to take. ## AT POPULAR PRICES BIG PICTURE PACKS 'EM AT THE RIALTO THEATER

Enormous Crowds Flock to See D. W. Griffith's Celebrated Masterpiece, "Hearts of the World," With Gish Sisters, Bobby Harron and Other Well-known Players of the Screen.

Great crowds are flocking to the Rialto theater, where D. W. Griffith's great picture, "Hearts of the World," is now showing for the first time at popular prices. Apparently a very small per cent of the film-going public of Tulsa saw the production during its previous visit to this city, when it was shown at $1.50, as the Rialto's seating capacity was taxed all day yesterday and last night hundreds were unable to get in.

"Hearts of the World" at 25 cents is the biggest bargain that has been offered in this city. A million dollar production, requiring 18 months to make, and considered the greatest picture D. W. Griffith has ever produced, the opportunity of seeing it at popular prices is a prospect that appeals strongly to lovers of fine pictures.

"Hearts of the World" is the most colorful and pretentious screen drama ever shown. Originally it was in 13 reels, but there was so much zing until a late hour and Milton Young, president of the Guaranty State bank, came over last night.

Back of all the social activities, however, are matters of real moment to the banking profession, which will be discussed today and tomorrow. The officers of the association are looking forward to one of the most pleasurable as well as one of the most profitable meetings in the association's history.

Oklahoma Briefs From Washington

WASHINGTON, May 20.—The interstate commerce commission today entered an order reducing the rate on common window glass from Oklahoma to Waco, Texas from 37 1/2 cents a hundred to 31 1/2 cents.

Congressman Ferris today called on Edward Chambers, in charge of traffic for the railroad administration, in a further effort to have rates on oil from the Ranger and Burkhurst fields to Oklahoma refineries reduced.

Ferris said he felt certain relief will eventually be granted.

scared of that equality of treatment which we hope to accord and to promote the world over. Our tariff laws as they now stand provide no weapon of retaliation in case other governments should enact legislation unequal in its bearing on our products as compared with the products of other countries.

Though we are as far as possible from desiring to enter upon any course of retaliation, we must frankly face the fact that hostile legislation by other nations is not beyond the range of possibility, and that it may have to be met by counter legislation.

Tariff Law Is Lacking. This subject has fortunately been exhaustively investigated by the United States tariff commission. A recent report of that commission has shown very clearly that we lack and that we ought to have the instruments necessary for the assurance of equal and equitable treatment.

The attention of the congress has been called to this matter on past occasions, and the measures which are now recommended by the tariff commission are substantially the same that have been suggested by previous administrations. I recommend that this phase of the tariff question receive the early attention of the congress.

Will you not permit me, turning from these matters, to speak once more, and very earnestly of the proposed amendment to the suffrage to women, and which passed the house of representatives at the last session of the congress? It seems to me that every consideration of justice and of public advantage calls for the immediate adoption of that amendment and its submission forthwith to the legislatures of the several states.

Throughout all the world this long delayed extension of the suffrage is looked for in the United States longer, I believe, than anywhere else, the necessity for it and the immense advantage of it to the national life has been urged and debated by women and men who saw the need for it and urged the policy of it when it required steadfast courage to be so much before hand with the common conviction, and I for one, ever for our country the distinction of being among the first to act in a great reform.

The telegraph and telephone lines will, of course, be returned to their owners so soon as the retransfer can be effected without confusion; so soon, that is, as the change can be made with least possible inconvenience to the public and to the owners themselves.

Railroads Back to Owners. The railroads will be handed over to their owners at the end of the calendar year. If I were in immediate contact with the administrative questions which must govern the retransfer of the telegraph and telephone lines I could name the exact date for their return also. Until I am in direct contact with the practical questions involved I can only suggest in the case of the telegraph and telephones, as in the case of the railroads, it is clearly desirable in the public interest that some legislation should be considered which may tend to make of these indispensable instrumentalities of our modern life a uniform and co-ordinated system which will afford those who use them as complete and certain means of communication with all parts of the country as has so long been afforded by the postal system of the government and at rates as uniform and intelligible.

Expert advice is, of course, available in this very practical matter, and the public interest is manifestly served by the telegraph and telephone service of the country can be said to be in any sense a national system. There are many confusions and inconsistencies of rates. The scientific means by which communication by such instrumentalities could be rendered more thorough and satisfactory has not been made full use of.

They are unequal in the incidence on different industries and on different individuals. Their collection is difficult and expensive. Those which are levied upon articles sold at retail are largely evaded by the readjustment of retail prices. On the other hand, I should assume that it is expedient to maintain a considerable range of indirect taxes, and the fact that alcoholic liquors will presently no longer afford a source of revenue by taxation makes it the more necessary that the field should be carefully studied in order that the equivalent sources of revenue may be found which it will be legitimate, and not burdensome to draw upon. But you have at hand in the treasury department, many experts who can advise you upon the matters much better than I can. I can only suggest the lines of a permanent and workable system, and the placing of the taxes where they will least hamper the life of the people.

Import Taxes Are Fixed.

There is fortunately no occasion for undertaking in the immediate future any general revision of our system of import duties. No serious danger of foreign competition now threatens American industries. Our country has emerged from the war less disturbed and less weakened than any of the European countries which are our competitors. Our industrial establishments have been subjected to greater strain than ours, their labor force to a more serious disorganization and this clearly not the time to seek an organized adversary. The work of more reconstruction will, I am afraid, tax the capacity and the resources of their people for years to come.

So far from there being any danger or need of accentuated foreign competition, it is likely that the condition of the next few years will greatly facilitate the marketing of American manufactures abroad. The least of all should we depart from the policy adopted in the tariff act of 1912 of permitting the free entry into the United States of the raw materials needed to supplement and enrich our own abundant supply.

An exhaustive study of the whole question of electrical communication and of the means by which the central authority of the nation can be used to unify and improve it if undertaken by the appropriate committee of the congress, would certainly result, indirectly if not directly, in a great public benefit.

Would Modify Dry Law.

The demobilization of the military forces of the country has progressed to such a point that it seems to me entirely safe now to remove the ban upon the manufacture and sale of wine and beer; but I am advised that without further legislation I have not the legal authority to remove the present restrictions. I therefore, recommend that an act approved November 21, 1918, entitled "An act to enable the secretary of agriculture to carry out during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1919, the purposes of the act entitled 'An act to provide further for the national security and defense by stimulating agriculture and facilitating the distribution of agricultural products' and for other purposes, be amended, or repealed in so far as it applies to wines and beers."

I sincerely trust that I shall very soon be at my post in Washington again to report upon the matter which made my presence at the bankers' table apparently imperative and to put myself at the service of the congress in every matter of administration or counsel that may seem to demand executive action or advice.

(Signed) WOODROW WILSON.
